

Get Inclusive Bystander/Up-stander Intervention Training

What is this Training For? Standing up and looking out for one another's safety is a core value we all share as members of Alvin Community College. One way in which we commit to this value is by making sure that we intervene when we observe anyone whose safety is being threatened, being harassed or is in danger of sexual assault or violence. We hold ourselves to a high standard of never being silent and never being passive bystanders.

What does it mean to be an active bystander who intervenes in the time of need? Where do I find help if necessary? How do I intervene without taking on risks? These are the questions you will receive answers to in a free online training module provided by our training partner, Get Inclusive.

All new and transfer students at Alvin Community College are required to complete a brief (20-30 minute) self-paced module on bystander intervention. These students will receive an invitation email from Get Inclusive with information on completing the training.

What Will You Learn?

Learning objectives for this training module include:

- Consider the value and benefits of engaging all campus members as allies in sexual assault prevention by increasing knowledge and skills around bystander intervention and risk reduction.
- Develop a shared language around terms related to domestic violence, dating violence, sexual assault, stalking, and consent.
- Become familiar with the college's statement prohibiting domestic violence, dating violence, sexual assault, and stalking.
- Recognize appropriate and inappropriate behaviors along the continuum of sexual behaviors.
- Increase empathy for victims of sexual assault resulting in a heightened sense of responsibility for playing a role in decreasing sexual violence on campus.
- Become aware of the warning signs of sexually abusive and violent behavior.
